*Itzel Adriana Sosa-Sánchez*¹

Abstract:

This article intends to present an overview of the most important theories and concepts regarding the study of sexuality and reproduction from a gender perspective. We consider sexuality and reproduction as two key aspects of the sociological analysis. We also recognize that gender perspective has played a central role in making visible the set of social relations and practices, regarding the social and symbolic construction of sexual difference. Gender perspective has made possible the denaturalisation of sexuality and reproduction outlining the political and ideological dimensions related to their social organization in different social settings and contexts.

Key words: Gender, Reproduction, Sexuality, Body, Heterosexuality.
